FLOWER IS FIGHTING HILL.

NEW YORK'S GOVERNOR WILL HAVE HIS OWN "MACHINE."

Cleveland's Plans-President Harrison's Letter On the Election Result-The Political News.

New York, December 15.—Senator HH is expected in the city to-day. It has been understood that he was to meet Lieutenant-Governor Sheehan here yesterday. Several of the Senator's friends were in the city yesterday morning. They are anxious to consult him about an alleged attempt on the part of Governor Flower to huild up a machine of his own at the expense of Senator Hill. January 1 the Governor intends to cut off the heads of several devoted henchmen of the Senator, it is alleged. One of the first to go will be Civil Service Commissioner Alexander C. Eustace, of Elmira. His resignation has been in the hands of Governor Flower for several weeks, but at the request of Senator Hill, weeks, but at the request of Senator Hill, summary action has been delayed. The Senator disclaims responsibility for the de-feat of Speaker Bush, and his friends say has rebuked Eustace sharply for his share in it. While Speaker Bush's friends have been determined that Eustace shall be decapitated, they are not so much inclined

In this is they were just affect electron. It was intimated to Mo. Bush a clear to the control of the control o capitated, they are not so much inclined to insist upon this, as they were just after election. It was intimated to Mr. Bush a few days ago that he might be successor to Colonel Lathrop, superintendent of State prisons. If this suggestion is fulfilled the light against Enstace may end, so far as Bush's champions are concerned, and Controller Frank Campbell may not, as contemplated, succeed him as State committeeman. Since learning that Colonel Lathrop may leave the prisons department his supporters have become much alarmed, and have begged Senator Hill, who appointed him to interfere. Friends of Warden Brown, of Sing Sing, are also anxious to have Senator Hill interfere in the warden's behalf. Opponents of Brown declare that he will be compelled to yield his berth, either before or after the Legislature assembles. It was hinted that Senator John McCarty might be asked to name Brown's successor. Brown's enemies are making the most of his alleged declaration that he desired, before he left Sing Sing, to superintend the electric execution of a woman. The warden denies that he eyer said this. Whether or not Senator Hill will take up the cudgel for Labor Commissioner Peck, in view of Peck's conduct in the recent campaign, no one yet will predict. That Governor Flower desires to get rid of Peck, Senator Hill's friends make no secret of asserting. It came to the ears of State politicians yesterday that Governor Flower contemplates a wholesale reorganization of the forestry commission. The Legislative committee, of which. Congressman-elect William Ryan was chairman, found many things wrong about the commission. Theodore B. Basselin of Lewis, and Townsend Coix, of New York, are holdovers, and Dudley Farlin, of Albany, has only a year to serve. All are adherents of Senator Hill.

A confidant of Senator Hill made this comment at the Fifth-avenue Hotel last night: "Governor Flower is trying to break up the Hill machine and erect one of his own. He expects to be renominated in 1594, and two years later he expects to capture

Mr. Cleveland's Plans.

New York, December 15.—Mr. Cleveland announced yesterday that he had decided to go to Lakewood on January 15, to remain until he goes to Washington. He will prepare his inaugural address at Lakewood. pare his inaugural address at Lakewood, and go from there direct to Washington. Colonel Lamont and Mrs. Lamont will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland and their daughter to Washington. When asked about the Cabinet, Mr. Cleveland said: "There is nothing in the gossip you hear about it, and there will be nothing to say authoritatively for some time to come. At the proper time there will be no secresy about the selection of the members of the Cabinet."

MANCHESTER, N. H., December 15.—Ex-Governor Cheney, who has been nominated for minister to Switzerland, states that as soon as he is confirmed he will start for his new post. Mr. Cheney says that President Harrison wrote him in regard to the recent election as follows:

What Our Mr. Taggart Said. CHICAGO, December 15.—Thomas Tag-gart, chairman of the Indiana Democratic gart, chairman of the Indiana Democratic State Central Committee, is at the Victoria. Said he: "Throughout the entire State we are a unit for ex-Governor Gray as a member of Cleveland's Cabinet. We are sanguine of success and already have assurances that J. G. Shanklin and S. E. The Fourth Commandment, he said, had been sent up for reading by Senator Quay as a reason for the passage of the act, and Senator Peffer was right when he said the Senate was engaged in a religious discussion as to whether the first or seventh day should be observed as Sunday. In answer to questions, he said the employment of chaplains in Congress and the army was unconstitutional, and Congress could not in any way establish or legalize a Sunday law.

Mr. Slattery was one of the chief electrical engineers of the Ft. Wayne Electric Company. He was a well-known inventor of electrical appliances, having a reputation abroad as well as at home. He invented what is known as the Slattery induction system of electric lighting, on which he en o ed a loy-rity of $16,000 per year, and he also invented a storage-battery system of pro elling streeters. Many datalis of the Ft. Wayne Bestric Company's system of moundecent system of lighting were perfected by him. He was preminent in Massonry. He was a man of wonderful command of language, and in tosst and resiones he was a fealule of all festive occasions. He was a native of Ireland by birth, forty-two years ago, and he came to America in 1861. The deceased leaves a wife, but no children.

It is said that Frouatt's twelve-year-old daughter has made a confession as to the actions of her father on the night of March 25, 1887, when there was a party at Frouatt's house. The Frouatt girl tells of a strange and pretty young woman who was at the party, and her description tallies with that of the murdered girl. The authorities will neither deny nor confirm this story, but say that the arrest was made upon evidence already in their possession, and that which they gained within a few hours previous to Frouatt's arrest. The murder has been one of the foremost of New Jersey's "mysteries," and the confession of Frouatt's daughter, together with the evidence gained at the coroner's inquest at the time would fasten a strong chain of circumstances of evidence about the prisoner.

The French President Is Implicated

President Carnot will resign shortly are confirmed. At Tuesday's Cabinet meeting, during the heated dispute between M. Ribot and M. Rouvier, the President interposed the remark: "The action of certain ministers renders my retention of office almost impossible."

M. Rouvier thereupon left the meeting, declaring that he would resign. President Carnot's difficulty is increased by the reports that his father and his brothers are involved in the Panama canal scandal. President Carnot himself, and not M. Ribot, was the one who sent to M. Tirard the dispatch:

"I call upon you as a friend of my family not to refuse office. If you do, I will resign tomorrow."

A CHICAGO WIDOW MAKES HIM AN OFFER OF MARRIAGE.

She Says It Is the Result of a Wager, But She Is Dead In Earnest, Just Much Puzzled About It.

CHICAGO, December 15 .- A Washington special to the News Record says: Senator Philetus Sawyer, of Wisconsin, one of the wealthiest men in the United States Senate, has received an offer of marriage from a Chicago widow under eircumstances which remarkable in the literature of courtship and romance.

Senator Sawyer has for several years lived alone in his vast and magnificent residence on Connecticut avenue. He has millions at his command, but his widowerhood has left him to enjoy alone the luxuries with which he is surrounded. His superb home and millions have been so often alluded to in the newspapers that they have evidently caught the attention of at least one Chicago woman, who, being also alone in the world, feels that two hearts should beat as one in the enjoyment of these riches. The Senator's mail is constantly filled with letters requesting aid for one charity or another. Among these letters one came the other day far-different from the rest. It was postmarked Chicago, and the address on the envelope showed the bold English hand of a woman. Thus when the Senator read the letter he was both amused and astonished.

It was a trank and onen proposal of marthe attention of at least one Chicago woman, write a courteous but explicit declination of the proposal of marriage. It was finally agreed, however, that silence would be the best course, so that this dispatch, giving the first statement of the proposal and the Sen-ator's purpose of silence, will carry grief to the loving heart of the ambitious Chicago

THE WALES MINE HORROR.

Twenty Bodies Recovered and Twenty sion took place yesterday. Twenty men were brought up by the rescuers yester-day. The rescued men were in an ex-hausted condition when brought to the hausted condition when brought to the top. As each came to the surface the women and children crowded around to see who they were, and those who recognized their relatives overwhelmed them with caresses. The men who are still below are imprisoned in a seam that is under where the fire raged. Strong hopes are entertained that many of them will be rescued alive.

tained that many of them will be rescued alive.

The fire was not subdued until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Some little time after, the bodies of twenty of the miners, who had been suffocated by the noxious gases generated in the mine after the explosion, were brought to the surface by the rescuing party. Though the work is extremely dangerons, the exploration of the workings is continued in the hope that some of the miners in the pit at the time of the explosion may have reached places of safety where they are awaiting the approach of the rescuing party.

are awaiting the approach of the rescuing party.

The rescue parties report horrible scenes in the mine. In the main roads the bodies lie in twos and threes as they fell, faces downward and heads toward the entrance of the shaft. Large sections of roof and galleries have collapsed. Amid the ruins were found mangled bodies and half-burned limbs. The ruins have blocked many parts of the mine and therefore the men searching for bodies are unable to give any definite idea of the number lost. Several miners who were just alive when found, died on the way to the surface or shortly after being taken from the car. One of the rescuing parties reached the surface half suffocated by the heat and smoke caused by fresh outbreaks of the fire.

THE TRAIN ROBBERS CAUGHT.

HUNTINGTON, W. Va., December 15.—Chief Turner, of the police force here, aided by his assistants, cleared up the Chesapeake & Ohio vestibule train robbery and murder yesterday by the arrest of Thomas Collins at Bradrick, just across the river, in Ohio. He was charged with the murder of the German passenger, and with being a confederate of Burrell Forgey, who was placed in custody last night. The chain of evidence is complete.

night because it was stormy and threatening, and they would be more likely to get away unobserved. The plan, as given to him by Forgey, was to begin in the first coach, hold up the passengers clear through, and pull the bell-rope and escape at the rear. They started to the depot from Forgey's house, and Mrs. Forgey sewed the mask, which was of black dress-goods, to his hat. He says the German spoiled all their plans by making the resistance he did. At the start he says they did not intend to attempt to rob the bargage coach. Collins and Forgey are both wounded. Forgey's wound is in the right arm near the shoulder. Collins has a Lad wound in the fleshy part of the right leg above the knee.

SHE RENOUNCED HER FAITH,

posed To Be Happy.

BALTIMORE, December 15 .- The conver sion of a pretty Jewish maiden to Christianity, and her subsequent elopement with a young man of the Catholic faith, has created considerable excitement among the Jews of East Baltimore. The young woman who is now Mrs. Nat Stapleton, was woman who is now Mrs. Nat Stapleton, was formerly known as Rossa Cabe. The marriage was celebrated at the cathedral, the Rev. Father Thomas officiating. The bride's brother tried to induce her to break off what he termed an unholy alliance. Now her family mourns her as dead. Her sister refuses to let her have her trunk, and yesterday the matter came up in the courts, when the bride sued for possession of her property. She is eighteen years old and the husband is twenty-one, a plumber and well-to-do.

A detective was put on the ease and by certain clews was led to search Vennum's rooms yesterday. He found the missing jeweiry in an unlocked drawer, and arrested Vennum last evening. Vennum protested his innocence asserting that things were placed there without his knowledge. He was committed to the station-house through inability to procure bail. Vennum's father, who is a prominent Chicago banker, has been notified and is expected to come on at once.

MRS. MURPHY TURNS FORGER, And Realizes $2,500 From It Before She Was Arrested.

TACOMA, Wash., December 15.—Mrs. Annie M. Murphy is in jail at Huntsville, Ala., charged with forgery. She is the wife of a Tacoma merchant, from whom she parted recently to begin a systematic draft forging business. Inside of a month she had uttered $2,895 in forged National Bank of Commerce drafts of this city and on the Chase National Bank of New York. All of them have been cashed, save one for $350, which she waitest to get cashed in Huntsville, Ala. The Chase National Bank of New York offered a reward for her capture. Mrs. Murphy appeared in male attire. Her father is Senator McCrae.

KENRICK'S COADJUTOR. An Important Meeting to Consider the Vicar-General Grady as coadjutor, but the latter is not popular, and, in fact, it is said that he is opposed by nearly every priest in the archdiocese. One petition against this selection has already been sent to kome, and another is being circulated. It is over half a century since the venerable archbishop was consecrated to the episcopate, and owing to the independent stand which he took at the time of the memorable controversy over the infallibility of the Supreme Pontiff, it is understood that he has not been in high favor with the advisers of the Pope.

It is understood that the conference of suffragans will also consider the advisers of the Pope.

It is understood that the conference of suffragans will also consider the advisability of recommending to the Vatican the creation of new bishoprics at Des Moines and Sionx City, Ia., and also the promotion of Bishop John J. Hennesey, of Dubuque, Ia., to the archiepiscopacy. The action of the congress, however, will not be made known until after its report has been sent to Rome.

A Warning From Rome. ROME, December 15.—Much irritation ex-ists at the Vatican on account of the attacks made by certain American Catholic journals on the person and the mission of Monseigneur Satolli. It is learned that as regards the opposition made to the policy of the Pope, the Vatican may cause inquiry to be made into its origin. The Holy Father is desirous that his agents shall be respected, and that his views of passification in the United States shall be followed. If there be any need of it, the Pope will, in this instance, also take severe measures with those who oppose his intervention. It is believed here that the Vatican knows whence the hostile American criticisms proceed.

MAN NEEDS REFORMING. trooklyn Ladies Have Taken the Mat ter In Hand Very Vigorously.

New York, December 15.—The rudeness of man was a question that agitated the members of the Brooklyn Women's Health Protective Association at a meeting yesterday, in the rooms of the Young Women's Christian Association. Mrs. James Scringeour presided, and urged the ladies to greater activity if they wished to accomplish any reform. Committees were appointed to visit the police commissioners, Corporation Council Jenks, President Powell of the bridge, and the presidents of the elevated and surface railroads, to urge various reforms which the association thinks are greatly needed. One of these committees will organize a crusade against indiscriminate expectoration in public. Permission will be asked to place in every surface, bridge and elevated car a placard forbidding the practice. Just how this placard should read caused a lengthy discussion. Mrs. C. R. Shepard was in favor of this, which she had seen in Philadelphia: "Men must not spit on the floor." Others, however, objected as the language was too blunt for the City of Churches. It was finally agreed that the placard should read:

Postmasters—John B. Tobias, at Everett, Pa.; Wm. Drawe, at Cuero, Tex.; Edward A. Robertson, at Taylor, Tex.; McDonald Campbell, at Jefferson, Tex.; Mrs. Jennie T. Mister, at Grenada, Miss.; Wm. F. Mulvihill, at Vicksburg, Miss. Sr. Louis, Mo., December 15.—The Roman Catholic bishops of this diocese are assembling here to-day for an important meeting, at which three names will be selected for submission to Rome for a coadjutor for Archbishop Kenrick, who for some time past has been in a condition of health that has prevented the full performance of his duties. The archbishop himself favors an Appeal in the Case.

CINCINNATI, December 15.—The last scene in the trial of the Rev. Prof. Henry Preserved. Smith was enacted yesterday. The Rev. Dr. A. Ritchie, acting moderator, read the sentence of the court. Professor Smith broke the silence by saying that he was gratified that the trial had been conducted without disagreeable personalities. The members of the prosecuting committee made similar conciliatory speeches. Protests were then made to the finding by both parties. Both sides will appeal to the Synod of Ohio. Professor Smith, it is said, will not be removed from Lane Seminary, as it is understood that a large majority of the trustees favor his retention.

Professor Smith expressed himself freely concerning the issue of the trial. He said he was surprised that the penalty was anything more than rebuke or admonition.

"Will you appeal the case?" was asked. "Certainly I will," was the reply, "I will see it through. I could do nothing else in justice to myself and my friends."

"It has been suggested that you will regant, and thus end the matter."

"Pshaw," said Professor Smith, with a gesture of impatience. "Such a thing is out of the question. I have been teaching for eighteen years, and I know something about this subject. I can not think of abandoning one inch of the ground I have taken. This trial," he continued, with emphasis, "has taught some lessons, and there will never be another like it in this church. People nowadays are disposed to do considerable thinking."

ROME, December 15.—The Pope will shortly send to the Italian bishops and the Italian people a circular letter denouncing Free Masonry. His Holiness will declare that the Free Masons are pursuing the satanic aim of replacing Christianity by naturalism.

The man's actions, as he moved cautiously about, hiding in shadow and corners, showed that he meditated som lawless act. The sentinel sprang upon the intruder. The fellow was armed with sharp dagger and made a desperate resist ance. The sentry shouted for help, an President Hyppolite and others of his household, being aroused from their slumbers by the noise, rushes to the scene. The sentry was alread wounded and nearly exhausted when recue came, and Hyppolite and his friends succeeded in capturing the assassin. The prisoner confessed that he was from Jacmes and that he had come to Port-au-Prince with the purpose of killing Hyppolite. The prisoner was defiant, and said that he only regretted that he had not been successful.

President Hyppolite was greatly enraged, and declared that the captain of the guard, as well as those who were on guard outside, must have been guilty of criminal collusion, or, at least, of criminal negligence. The President, therefore, decided that the prisoner should be shot at once, and that the captain of the guard and the sentries who were stationed at the entrance of the palace should also be shot. The orders were forthwith carried out, and the condemned persons were shot to death in the garden of the palace. The sentinel who had detected and seized the assassin, was munificently rewarded and promoted.

These institutions, the annual reports now being made to the Governor show, have grown much during the last two years, and the expense of maintenance has necessarily increased. An attempt will be made to convince the Legislature that in some instances the institutions are so crowded for room that it is necessary to erect additional buildings. The members who have been giving the financial question some thought say it is by far the most important one that will confront the Legislature. They say that along with this demand for largely increased appropriations is a sentiment among the people that taxes must be lowered rather than increased. Then, too, there is the State debt, which must receive attention. It is well understood that the finance committee will have its hands full during the session in devising a financial plan that will meet the condition of affairs.

People's Party Conference.

The leaders of the People's party in Inliana are expecting a large attendance at the state conference, to be held in this city on he 27th and 28th of this month. Chairman incent, of the State committee, has been stified that Chairman Taubeneck, of the ational committee, and Paul Vandervoort, will be present at this meeting.

At this State conference it is proposed to rganize an Indiana branch of the Indus-rial Legion, recently established at Memphis.

The State committee of the party has been called to meet on the evening of the 26th to clear up the work of the last campaign. There remains an unpaid balance against the committee, which can be wiped out and leave money in the treasury if each county, would contribute $5. The committee has secured reduced rates on the railroads for the conference. for the conference

The Governor's Appointments.

Governor-elect Matthews is much behind with his correspondence, the burden of which is appeals for indorsement from aspirants to Federal appointments. The appointments which he has to make when appointments which he has to make when he takes his office are taking much of his time. The greatest rush is for the office of Adjutant-General. The list of aspirants numbers thirteen. There are only two aplicants for the position of Quartermaster-ceneral, but the number will probably be sereased. Who will compose the Gover-or's staff during the coming administra-on is beginning to attract attention, and a umber of applications have been made.

Candidates For Clerk of the House, Charley Crawley, of Sullivan, candidate for clerk of the House of Representatives, has come to the city to remain until after the contest is over. He is staying at the Grand, and does not allow a member-elect of the Legislature who, comes to town to escape him. Two new candidates for the position have been announced. They are John G. Carter, of Orleans, and Benjamin Harrel, of Ripley county.

"What's it in yuh?" replied the colored man, turning toward the gutter.

The officers anticipated an attempt to run on the part of the stranger, and had him pinioned in a minute. They went through his pockets and found, besides a razor, a small saw used by burglars to cut window slats, a powder blast and a window slats, a powder blast and a window slats, a powder blast and a window station, and registered as Thomas t. Holmes, and was recognized by the decetives as an old-time burglar and houseworker, who has been released from the enitentiary recently. He was charged ith carrying concealed weapons. In Poce Court he exhibited the indifference of a class as to the punishment inflicted, a refused to say anything in his own bellf, and Judge Buskirk fined him $500 and sts, which will keep him in the workase a year and a half, if not paid. Sevil house robberles have occurred in the lighborhood where he was found, and he supposed by the police to have been the saworker."

Amusements.

The Sothern Company closed last night at the Grand Opera House to a large and enthusiastic andience. There is a large reserve for the Digby Bell engagement, beginning to-night at the Grand, and continuing for the remainder of the week. Mr. Bell and his operatic combination will present the new cumic opera, written by Harry B. Smith and Julian Edwards, entitled "Jupiter," Louise Montague, Laura Joyce Bell, and J. Aldrich Libbey are members.

To-night the German Theater Company, of Cincinnati, O., will give one performance at English's Opera House. There has been a large reserve sale.

A CHANGE OF SCENE

Two Amateur Actors Arrested For Larceny While Rehearsing.

The cart of Thespis was given a rude jolt by patrolman Duty anst evening, when he blocked its fragile wheel and took from the "tail-board" George McDonald and Charles Mitchell. The pair are young men who have been employed at the Grand Opera House in the capacity of supernumeraries, and by reason of this vocation have become imbued with the spirit of Thespian ambition. In spite of the fact that they dreamed their historic dreams under horse blankets belonging to John H. Spahr, the liveryman, in the cellar under Nimal's restaurant, they were ambitious and day by day rehearsed their parts in a sensational melodrama of their own composition. They were rehearsing at 271 East Market street yesterday when patrolman Duty placed them under arrest for stealing the blankets under which they passed the nights. In Police Court this morning they were held for grand jury action. Chris Mertz, who was bound over yesterday, is implicated in the same alleged theft. The cart of Thespis was given a rude jolt

THE BARBERS AND SUNDAY. Legislature Will Be Asked To Amend the Sunday Law.

The organized barbers of Indianapolis will ask the coming Legislature to enact a law that will enable organized labor to close barber shops on Sunday. It is averred by the members of the union who have been the members of the union who have been attempting to close shops on Sunday that the law under which violators are punished is too lax. The Legislature will be asked to make it possible to add a work-house sentence where it is the second offense. The question of Sunday closing was discussed at the meeting of the National Union at St. Louis last week and the status of the movement in this city received especial astention. A letter to the union from E. A. Perkins was read, and George Fate, who represented Indianapolis in the meeting, described the situation here to the meeting. The action of the barbers here was indorsed.

The majority of the offenders are permitted to give bond at their place of residence. It is said that some of the Federal office-holders make much money out of the wholesale indictment of men for violating the revenue laws. It is asserted by those indicted that in most cases the violation is through ignorance, and that the Government should be satisfied with the collection of the penalty.

The Rev. Mr. Brown, of Cincinnati. Cincinnati papers say that the Rev. Lewis Brown, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, that city, has been called to an Indianapolis pulpit. Conversations With the Dead Man, In Which His Wishes Were Expressed. Quoted-Charges of the Wife's Powerful Domination.

The attorneys for Mrs. Josephine McDon Joseph E. McDonald, some days ago filed in the Hamilton Circuit Court a number of interrogatories which the plaintiffs were required to answer under oath. These and the transfer of the work assigned them. swers have been filed. M. A. McDonald, in reply to the ques-tions, says that the will probated does not bear his father's signature; that he has seen his father write his name many times, and is as familiar with it as he was with his father's face; that the will does not contain what Joseph E. McDonald said to this plaintiff was his genuine will; that he had told this plaintiff (M. A. McDonald) that he had willed the fee simple of the real estate in contest to his legal herrs—viz., one-half to Malcom A. and the other half to Jessie C, and Joseph E. McDonald. He afterward said he had made a like statement to John M. Butler, his law partner, and James D. McDonald, his older brother; that Senator McDonald had told that he had conveyed the Penpsylvania-street property to McDonald, his older brother; that Senator McDonald had told that he had conveyed the Pennsylvania-street property to a trustee (A. L. Mason), who had reconveyed it to the Senator and his wife, so she would have it at his death; that it was worth $30,000 and the rents amounted to $1,750 a year. The Meridian-street property was arranged the same way, and so was the Washington city property. This statement was made by the Senator five days before his death, when he knew he could not recover. He said the will had given his wife everything at the homestead, including furniture, library, pictures, horses and carriages. "I have willed," continues the statement, quoting the dead man, "the Washington-street real estate to my legal heirs in feesimple, yourself to have one-half, Jessie and Joe-Zeke's children—to have the other half. The rents, which will amount to about $2,200 a year, are to go to my wife during her life. After her death, yourself, Jessie and Joe will have all. I thought neither of you had a present necessity for the property, but I want you to finally have it. It was bought with the money which your mother's property on Pennsylvania street sold for, and I want it to be an estate for my legal heirs. My wife will receive $2,200 a year rent from this property during her life, and this with the other will give her an income of about $4,000 a year, which will be ample."

He said he had given Scott McDonald his gold watch and law library if he [Scott] studied law. The plaintiff further said when he first saw the paper purporting to be his father's will he at once pronounced it a forgery.

Miss Jessie C. McDonald, of Washington Miss Jessie C. McDonald, of Washington city, in answer to the question, said: "The influence of this defendant, Josephine McDonald, over my grandfather was masterly and controlling. The will of the wife seemed to predominate in everything, and it could be felt rather than described. His subordination to her will was almost abject, and made his relatives and friends feel uncomfortable. I was forced to notice the difference in his conduct when she was present and when she was absent. When grandfather was alone with me or other members of the family, everything was free and open and we all felt right at home. We would always go to grandfather at any time with the merest trifle. When she was present he acted so different. He seemed to be depressed, restrained, and did not seem like the same person, and his house did not seem like home, as it has been to me since I was a child. The word and will of his wife seemed to be supreme in everything, as I could observe."

A HAUGHVILLE GHOST.

Mrs. Flood Hears Strange Noises Which She Thinks Are Supernatural.

According to the story of the latest occupant, Haughville has now a haunted house. William Flood is a molder at Brown-K-tcham's. Mrs. Flood and children came from Louisville, Ky., early in November, and took up residence in the house on Michigan street, where the late Dr. S. L. Foulston shot and killed himself. Mrs. Flood had not been in the house long before she heard noises at uncanny hours of the night, and, she says, saw the ghost of the late Doctor moving about the house. The blood stains on the floor, she alleges, assume a lifelike appearance in moist weather. Mrs. Flood was so disturbed by the ghostly visitations that she has given up the house and moved back to Louisville. Her husband did not hear any sounds or see any sights of a mysterious nature. He is still in Haughville.

Mrs. Aschbach, a German woman, who lived in the house the nine months preceding November was told of the report that she would not live in the house again for any money. She langhed, and stated that she had not been bothered by "spooks," but had moved from the house because it was "tsu grossa rent." The inmates of neighboring houses had seen no spirits, and heard nothing of them except from Mrs. Flood.

HER MEDICAL TREATMENT OF JOHN MARTIN WHO DIED.

Medicine Furnished Good For All Sorts Of Ills and Perfectly Harmless—Her Action "Charitable" To Assure a Heavenly Crown.

While Coroner Beek was to-day trying to liscover the supposed retreat of Mrs. Nancy E. Clem he was surprised to learn that she was about town hunting him. He made an appointment at his office for noon, and just before the clock struck twelve the historical little old woman came in. She was dressed in black alpaca, with a brown shawl over her shoulders, an undecorated hat on her head, over which a brown veil was loosely thrown and tied in a bow knot under the chin. She smilingly asked the coroner to sit down and listen to her, and then she told sit down and listen to her, and then she told of herself during the past few years. This was preliminary to an explanation of her relations to John Martin, colored, upon whose death she was expected to throw much light.

She said that she had been selling an "infallible" tonic, which was used by families promiscuously, without regard to sex, age or character of illness. This was true of the Martin family. Last June, she said, she called on Martin's family for the purpose of selling some of her "infallible" remedy. Martin was sick with a sore foot, from effects of injuries received in the war. She bathed the foot and Mrs. Martin purchased readily of the tonic which Mrs. Clem was selling. If Mr. Martin took any of this, and she had been told that he had, she did not know of it, but if he had taken any of it, she was sure it would not injure him.

any of it, she was sure it would not injure him.

"Why, if he had taken any of that," she said, "it would have injured him no worse than water. It was for the blood, anyhow. The children, Mrs. Martin told me, several times got hold of the bottle and emptied it, because they liked the medicine, which tasted sweet. A week ago last Sunday I called at the house. Mr. Martin was sick. I advised them to send him to the city hospital, but Mrs. Martin said he had no clothes to wear. I said I thought I could get him good medicine, and, out of the fullness of my heart, and because I wanted to do a charitable thing, and try to earn my erown in heaven, I called on Dr. L. Rögers and he gave me a prescription. This prescription I took to Heim's drug-store, but as it would cost 90 cents, I did not have it filled. The druggist said he would fix me up some medicine. This I took back and gave to Mr. Martin.

"Last Sunday I called at the house to try and get some money for the seven or eight hottless of medicines I had furnbade."

"Last Sunday I called at the house to try and get some money for the seven or eight bottles of medicines I had furnished. I had been able to collect only 25 and 50 cents at a time, and there was considerable owing me by Mrs. Martin. Instead of my being able to collect anything, Mrs. Martin wanted to borrow $2 from me, and bless her heart, for she is a good woman, and I believe her to be honest, I would have done it if I had had the money. I did not go back. I learned of Mr. Martin's death on Tuesday evening."

evening."

Mrs. Clem was asked why she gave the name of Dr. Patterson.

"I went under the name of Mrs. Patton, and not of Dr. Patterson. I love my first husband, and will go by his name as much as I can, though I have nothing that I am ashamed of in my past life. The things that I did for Mr. Martin are not things that I want to hide from anybody, and I do not believe that any harm came from what I did do."

In onestioning her Coroner Beck asked did do."

In questioning her, Coroner Beck asked particularly with reference to her general selling of medicine to poor people. She said that she sold the tonic altogether, but occasionally supplied people with "Epsy" salts, pills for the stomach and other good remedies "that wouldn't harm anybody." The Doctor accused her of practicing medicine without being a physician. She said: "Oh, dear me, no. I am no physician, and all that I do for sick people is what I have learned from the sickness in my own family. Dr. Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions as the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions as the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions as the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions as the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions are said that the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions are said that the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions are said that the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions are said that the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering transitions are said that the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Heaviering the said: "Oh, Rogers, who used to keep people is what I have learned from the sickness in my own family. Dr. Rogers, who used to keep a drug store on North Mississippi street, said that he would help me whenever I needed help. He gave me the prescription for Mr. Martin. He told me that if in my rounds I came across cases where a physician was needed, to recommend him."

Coroner Beck has secured the prescription which Dr. Rogers gave to Mrs. Clem. The remarkable thing about the prescription is the absence of any direction as to the quantity to be taken, or the duration of time between doses, The prescription is marked "filled" and 90 cents charges noted on it. Mrs. Clem volunteered to report daily to the coroner and keep him well informed as to her whereabouts. She said she did not want to be arrested, and if that was necessary, she didn't want to appear to be hiding, as she had done nothing that she was afraid to have investigated. She said that she met Dr. Rogers this morning, and he told her that THE NEWS had published something about her the night before, and she at once procured a copy. She said that she had no fault to find, but that she wanted her side of the story presented. The autopsy was performed by Dr. Harrison, who found that Martin's death was the result of peritonitis, and that there was also a tubercular affection of his kidneys. The injury to his foot was one that only an operation could have relieved. Whether the medicine which he took had anything to do with causing his death will not be known until it is analyzed.

Michaels says he did not even know whether Perry was white or colored.

THE FEDERATION OF LABOR.

Its Great Growth During the Year-The President's Recommendations.

The President's Recommendations.

Philadelphia, December 15.—At the opening of the fourth day's session of the national convention of the American Federation of Labor, the committee on the state of the order presented its report. It indicated that the organization had made a considerable growth during the past year, no less than 277 charters having been issued in thirty-two States of the Union, together with eight charters to national unions, making the largest number issued in any one year since the Federation was organized. These are the States in which this growth has been developed, with the number of charters: Alabama, 2; Arkansas, 4; Colorado, 11; California, 6; Connecticut, 2; South Dakota, 1; Florida, 1; Georgia, 1; Indiana, 33; Illinois, 33; Kansas, 3; Kentucky, 4; Iowa, 4; Louisiana, 30; Massachusetts, 13; Maine, 2; Michigan, 17; Missouri, 25; Montana, 2; Minaesota, 2; New Jersey, 3; New York, 11; Ohio, 38; Oregon, 1; Pennsylvania, 7; Rhode Island, 1; Texas, 1; Tennessee, 7; Virginia, 1; West Virginia, 1; Washington, 3; Wisconsin, 7.

The finances of the organization are in a most satisfactory condition. With a balance on hand a year ago, the total income of the year has been in the neighborhood of $20,000, and so well and economically has the Federation been managed that there is on hand a balance exceeding $7,500. Report shows that the loan of $25,000, naske to the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America to assist members on strike in several cities of the country to prevent an increase in the hours of labor, has been repaid. The report nrges that the convention should make some move to reduce the number of unemployed men by still advocating a reduction in the hours of labor in all branches of trade where it was possible to do so, President Gompers recommended that the convention ask Congress to repeal the Sunday-closing clause in the World's Fair bill,

THE HOME FOR CONFEDERATES The Georgia Senate Rejects It—The Money Will Be Returned.

ATLANTA, Ga., December 15.—The bill for the acceptance of the Georgia Home for Confederate Veterans, begun and built through the efforts of the late Henry W. Grady, which was offered as a free-will gift to the Legislature, was killed in the Senate yesterday by being postponed indefinitely by a vote of 28 to 16. The bill had already passed the House. Judge W. L. Calhoun, president of the board of trustees of the soldiers' home, said the Legislature would never get another chance to accept a home for the maimed soldiers of the confederacy, and that a meeting of the board of trustees would be called shortly, and the home would probably be sold and the money returned to the donors.

The Minnesota Legislature.

The Minnesota Legislature.

St. PAUL, Minn., December 15.—It has been the general opinion in political circles that Democrats and Alliance men would unite, as two years ago, and control the State Senate. Senator Ignatius Donnely, the leader of the combination two years ago, has, however, written a letter to Senator Davis announcing his intention of permitting the Republicans to organize that body. The same course will be followed by Senators Hompe and Dedon, giving the Republicans twenty-eight of the fifty-four members of the Senste. The House also has a Republican majority. The matter is of the utmost importance, as the State is to be redistricted this winter, and the Republicans have it in their power to prevent a legislative gerrymander.

BOSTON, December 15.—At the Maverick-street crossing of the Boston & Albany road in East Boston last night, Katharine Dona-hue, aged nineteen, and Julia Barry, aged twenty, were run over by some freight cars. The wheels passed over Miss Donahue's Italians on a Strike.

[Special to The Indianapolis News.]
HUNTINGTON, December 15.—Everything is running smoothly on the Chicago & Erie.
To-day noon about forty Italians, in construction work at Akron, struck because one of their members was discharged. Other Italians were sent to take their places and the work yesterday was completed. This has occurred a number of times this summer. The Italians leave for New York to-morrow.

NOVELTIES IN DRY GOODS. on Goods Quoted at Higher Fig-'ures-New Spring Prints.

The most interesting theme in wholesale dry-goeds circles is the condition of the cotton goods market. Never before have cotton goods been as firm as they are at present. The prices of some lines have been advanced so high as to be almost prohibitive. Agents are positively refusing to give quotations as well as declining to take orders in some lines. Indigo blue dye has advanced 50 per cent. and all cotton goods into which this dye enters have had a decided advance. The price of raw cotton, which hovered not long ago around 7 cents, is now quoted at about 10 cents on account of the short crop. This partly explains the advance in cotton goods, but in addition to these reasons the demand for the goods is beyond supply. The commission men are taking orders for apring prints without being able to name a price ou them, and some lines have been entirely withdrawn from the market. This is notably true in indigo blues, shirting prints and cardinal reds. Ginghams are the cheapest thing in the market to-day and a sudden large advance in them would not be surprising. The local jobbling houses are disposing of what cotton goods they have on hand at the old prices and the advance in values has not, therefore, reached the consumer. When the present stock in the trade houses gives out, the buyers from retail counters will realize the advance. It may be that the present condition of the market will be maintained for ninety days.

New spring prints promise to be hand-dition of the market will be maintained for ninety days.

New spring prints promise to be handsome, and the brands so prominent last season will doubtless be more popular than ever. Not only will the new goods show an improvement in appearance, but they will be of a better texture as well. The jobbers have been shown spring ginghams in styles entirely different from those made in former seasons, the designs being mostly small checks. The colorings are also new. Altogether the goods will be a surprise to the trade. In new spring prints foreign silks and dress-goods are being largely imitated, the effects being in stripes and well covered with small polka dots. In staple ginghams a new style has been introduced in the way of appon pinghams. They are thirty-eight inches wide with a woven border. The yard and a quarter makes an apron without seams. The two grades come in checks and plain grounds, and are "jobbed" at 8 and 9½ cents.

Another novelty was placed on the drygoods market this week to rival the large patronage which the calice "tabby cat" has been receiving. The last design is in the shape of a globe, on printed cloth, and is to be stuffed with cotton. The countries and seas of the earth are displayed in bright colors, and if will make an instructive and entertaining toy for little people, for whom it is intended. Two globes are printed to the yard, and the jobbing price is 12½ cents.

TOYS FOR THE POOR.

Churches Arranging For Distribution Christmas Time.

The various societies of the larger churches down town are preparing to distribute many Christmas presents among the children of the poor. Members have been asked to give toys and other articles, and altogether it is expected to gladden the hearts of children in many homes where there is too much poverty to permit the purchase of presents. Some of the larger and richer churches have decided not to distribute any presents to the Sunday-school children, but instead, use the money usually thus spent in making presents to the poor.

Changes in the Police Force. The Board of Public Safety met this morning and accepted the resignation of patroliman Jesse Settle, who was suspended for going to sleep upon his beat. It was not Settle's first offense. The case of Patrolinan Clinger, who sleep at the same time Settle did, was not considered by the board then. Harry Deshong, Democrat, was appointed to succeed Settle.

THE INDIANAPOLIS NEWS.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 15, 1892.

The circulation of The Indianapolis News for the last three months, to December 1, 1892, shows a daily average (exclusive of unsold papers) of 27,383.

This paper guarantees to advertisers that for the past five years its bona fide circulation has been larger than that of any other two Indiana dailies added together.

WAIT A WHILE.

WE think it will be a mistake for the city to tax the mains of the natural gas anies. The companies have been of incalculable benefit to the city. Let any one try to estimate the saving there has been to the people in the cost of fuel and he will be astonished at the total. Fuel gas is cheaper here for household use than anywhere else. This is due to the Trust, hich has been the controlling factor in aintaining the ordinance fixing the price. In the Trust nearly five thousand citizens vere interested at the first. Four thouand still retain their stock. The creation more expense than was expected at the outset. Everything that has so far been labor is about to be undertaken. earned has been put into the development of the gas field and the extension of the service. The stockholders have received no return on their investment. Just now the Trust begins to see daylight. It will be able to pay a small dividend without impairing its efficiency.

As soon as the Trust shall have returned to the stockholders the amount of their holdings with interest at 8 per cent., he price of gas to consumers is to be put down to cost. It is desirable that that result be reached as quickly as possible. By taxing the mains the city prefers a smaller resent good to a larger permanent benefit. The proposed tax on the mains of the Trust would amount to about $20,000 yearly. The Trust's power to meet its obligations to its shareholders will be weakened by just so much, and the day of cheaper gas will be correspondingly postponed. It seems to us that it will be much wiser for the city to find some other source of revenue than' to avail itself of its right to tax the

The artificial gas-mains will continue antaxed, though much money is made on illuminating gas. Why is it good policy, then, to add this special tax to the burdens of the natural gas companies, which have only just begun to get any return on their large expenditures?

It is, of course, to be borne in mind that the natural gas companies are now paying full taxes on their property at the me rate precisely as other propertyholders. The proposed tax on the mains would be in the nature of a special ase tax for the use of the streets or the right to do business here.

While we entirely approve of the pro-riety of such taxes as a general principle, here private corporations obtain the use of municipal property for money-making purposes, yet under all the circumstances in the present case we think the city would do better for itself by deciding for the present, at any rate, not to exact the pro-

Of practical interest are the particulars given of the business of lending money on chattel mortgages which one of the reports characterizes as amounting almost to a profession from its systematic pursuit. The dealings of the bureau with this evil have suggested a means of prevention which, as set forth in the report alluded to, is to take the form of a Chattel Mortgage Loan Association conducted upon the building association plan. Such an association has been in successful that will take the place of "the tolling operation for some years in Boston. The plans are now in the hands of a prominent banker of Indianapolis, who is prominent banker of Indianapolis, who is organizing a company to do this great gratefully accepted. work. Briefly, instead of allowing the hard-driven debtor to be at the mercy of those who prosecute the business of lend-rower to become a member of it as of a building association, and repay in sums of a few cents weekly, thus paying out in the course of a few months the principal and interest altogether. The bureau has done an inestimable work in investigating this evil and in calling out the project of the loan association which promises to be a means of preventing the evil with which the bureau has had so much to busy itself.

The report of the attorney, giving the details of the bureau's work, should be read by every citizen who has the welfare of the community at heart. It contains not only news, but many suggestions for thought. The suggestions as to needed laws and amendments of laws are most timely and should engage the attention of legislators. The system of mutual benefit associations is discussed with particularity and directness and the evil of it plainly

This new project is one which should receive the heartiest support. We commend it to the good citizens of Indianapolis and urge that they send their names to the secretary for membership in the ensuing year. > TEMPERANCE AND SOCIALISM. NONE of the plans proposed for the con-trol of the liquor traffic has been more interesting than that which originated in Gothenburg, Sweden, and which is known by the name of that province. It may be said to have grown out of an imperative need for temperance legislation. Eighty years of thought and experiment ante-date the system at present employed in portions of Sweden and Norway. Prof. John Graham Brooks, formerly of Harvard, but for five years engaged in the study of social and economic subjects abroad, contributes to the Forum an account of the Gothenburg plan, its genesis and slow development. From > 1811 practically every corn-grower in Sweden was allowed to be his own distiller; every effort to reduce the manufacture of spirits was fought with the cry that an attempt was being made to restrict the liberty of trade. late as 1830, despite efforts legally to control the distilleries, more than 170,000 stills existed in Sweden. In 1855 the reform reached a point where local option was bestowed upon communities and licenses were sold to "men of character" alone, but the abuses under this system were so many and the evasions of the law so ingenious that it was found necessary to take a step in a new direction. Now came the introduction of the cialistic feature-socialistic in the strict sense of permitting no private person to make profit for himself out of the liquor sales, the gain over the cost of manufacture going to the community direct. Instead of selling licenses by auction, it was proposed to hand over the entire ess to a company that should give proper guarantees to make no profits. In 1865 the Gothenburg Licensing Company was incorporated "with a view to taking over all such public house licenses as should fall in, reserving to themselves ing classes such profits as might exceed the net proceeds, which they were bound to hand over." In 1874 the It seems to be conceded that hand-made bound to hand over." In 1874 the christmas gifts are becoming rarer every year, and that many deft-handed women who used to begin every 26th of December to prepare presents for the Christmas follows the company of course a given over to the company. Of course a lowing are now depending on manufactured goods in the shops. Some-body must ply the needle and tie the ribbon, and somewhere a hand finds needed employment doing it. And furthermore, women are so busy and in thermore, women are so busy doing other things than manufacturing knickknacks that they are doubtless glad to escape this tedious business. This is putting it broadly, for there are thousands of feminine hands that would not touch foreign manufactures—that insist

Whiter than any whitest rose, And cold as lone, untrodden snow Upon a mountain peak, I hold the blossom in my hand; In language I can understand Its waxen petals speak.

She dropped it, moving through the dance, With cold, slight smile, and steady glance Of clear, far-seeing cyes; It fell full softly at my feet; With eager eyes and heart a-beat I stooped to grasp the prize.

The guests have vanished one by one,
The lights are quenched, the music done,
And I sit here apart.
Now, wherefore, am I sad to-night?
I had my fill of proud delight,
What alls thee, O my heart?

What alls thee thus to make a mos Since I have won her for my own, Henceforth to have and hold? Hath she not beauty for a dower? Is she not perfect as this flower? Yes, but the flower is cold.

Is she not white as angels afe, Smiling like some fair, lonely star At life's bewilderment? Breathing, spart from common cares Like this white flower, exotic airs? Yea, but the flower lacks scent.

I love her, and she is my own, Yet, as I sit to-night alone, Some subtle joy I miss; Upon her fruth I rest secure, Her heart is proud her soul is pure, But where is love's fond bliss?

If I should sorrow, would she creep Into my arms and softly weep Till I was comforted? If I fell fainting by the way, Would she find words of hope to say, And raise my dropping head?

If I should sin, would she draw near
In her white robes, and own me dear
In wrong as well as right?
Would she sit with me in the dust
Of shame, and speak with love's own trust
Of noonday after night?

I know not. I, how should I know? I think Heaven fashioned her of snow, So pure she is, so cold; Her li e seems rounded hour by hour, Compact as this pale, scentless flower, Complete without life's gold,

Complete without love's sweet perfumation in the room,
And morn is breaking gray.
I lay the blossom out of sight;
What cometh, anguish or delight,
With life's swift-dawning day?

"Mignon," Thomas: prayer and eradle song, Guilmant; scherzo, Lemaigre; concert fantasie, op. 29, Lux.

Schnecker's "Nearer My God to Thee," the first new piece sung at Roberts Park church under the new director, F. X. Arens, will be repeated by request next Sunday morning. The solo quartet consists of Miss Sweenie, soprano; Mrs. Senex, alto; Mr. Kingsley, tenor, and Mr. Arens, barytone. The opening anthem will be a Te Deum by Sudds, newly rehearsed.

A season of grand opera in English will be given at the Chicago Auditorium covering the two weeks beginning December 26. The operas are to be produced in magnificent style, and the repertory will include two works new to the American stage. The principals engaged for the season comprise some of the best-known artists in the country, and the scenic accessories, orchestra and chorus are to be of the best-order.

try, and the scenic accessories, orchestra and chorus are to be of the best order.

Minnie Hauk has been playing to crowded houses in Zurich, Switzerland. She will spend the holidays at her castle in Lucerne, and then proceed to Berlin, Leipsic, Dresden, Stockholm, Copenhagen and Christiana, where she has operatic engagements.

A story told of Hadyn in a recent number of the Organist's Journal, illustrates how completely a personal grievance may be forgotten in admiration for the genius of the offender. "It is well known that Beethoven was for a short time a pupil of Hadyn. Two-hundred and forty-five of Beethoven's exercises have been preserved, and of these Hadyn corrected forty-two. Beethoven soon tired of his master, however, and ceased taking lessons. This vexed the old gentleman much the more so as he heard that young Beethoven expressed himself in disrespectful terms about him, calling him, among other things, an 'old periwig stock. This last appellation angered the master particularly, and he cried out: 'What is this young fellow? How dare he treat me in this manner! What has he done to give himself such airs and graces? His few sonatas—well, they are not bad, though nothing out of the way. His quartets (making a pause), well, they are good, really good. And the septet? Oh, that is simply grand!' "And his whole face lighted up with enthusiasm, He had entirely forgotten his wrath.

A DAILY FASHION NOTE.

Hats To Go With the Costumes Now Worn-Holiday Millinery.

With costumes in empire and restoration style large chapeaux are de rigueur, but they are not precisely the headgear of the period. There are three shapes, carried out in felt and in velvet, which are most popu-lar. One of these is shown in to-day's fashion plate. It is a round hat of green velvet. The wide brim is covered with velvet and black tulle embroidered in silver. The crown is velvet, and has a lighter green band arranged on the top, from the center of which arises a large aigrette. The brim at the back is turned up and trimmed with a rosette, and it is faced underneath with light green velvet. Another napular type light green velvet. Another popular type is a moderately-sized hat with narrow brim, ornamented at the side with tall bows of ribbon. In another variety the brim is wide and waved, and the crown is entirely covered with a plume of feathers. The third shape is that with a high conical crown and large coal-scuttle brim. This last is a com-promise between the styles of the two periods. The bonnet is trimmed with feathers and secured with strings.

The shovel-shaped brim is one of the The shovel-shaped brim is one of the latest fads. It is covered with silk, satin or velvet. Narrow brims are tied under the chin, and a bunch of feathers and ribbon bows crown the back of the brim. Some toques are made of shot velvet, with high feathers in front and bows of velvet at the back. Sometimes a tiny flower is placed inside the brim on the left side. Tam O'Shanters are also made of shot velvet.

OPPOSES STATE HELP.

At Indianapolis, last night, parties having in charge the matters pertaining to the national encampment of the G. A. R., appointed committees to look after the various interests of said encampment. Among others was one called a legislative committhe, the duties of which is to secure an appropriation from the Legislature toward defraying the expenses of said encampment. For one we say "no" to this proposition. Not one cent of money belonging to the taxpayers of the State should be so voted. Indianapolis will be benefited thousands upon thousands of dollars by said encampment, and Indianapolis should foot all the bills. Hands out of the State treasury.—[Shelbyville Republican, OPPOSES STATE HELP.

SUPREME COURT.

Abstracts of Cases Decided Wednes day, December 14, 1892. RECEIVER -- WHEN APPOINTED WITHOUT NOTICE.

16,660. Chicago & Southeastern Railway Company et al. vs. Samuel L. Cason et al. Boone C. C. Reversed. Miller, C. J.

A court is not justified in appointing a receiver ex parte unless there is immediate danger to the property if not taken into the custody of the court, and unless delay in granting the relief might entirely the object sought. The verified petition for the appointment of a receiver in this case without notice to the adverse party, does not make this necessary showing.

SUPREME COURT PRACTICE — BRIEF — WAIVER OF ERRORS.

15,967. Buell M. Cobb et al. vs. Enos T. Taylor et al. Wabash C. C. Affirmed. MoBride, J.

(1) It is assumed by appellant that the complaint in this case proceeds upon a certain theory and attack it upon that theory. Its theory and scope are entirely different and the argument and anthorities cited are not applicable. (2) Errors assigned must be discussed or they will be treated as waived. The mere assertion in a brief that the court erred in the ruling is not a discussion of the alleged error.

DITCH—ASSESSMENTS—INJUNCTION.

15,429. Frank M. Millikan et al. vs. Charles Woll et al. Cass C. C. Reversed. Elliott, J.

Elliott, J.

(1) In a collateral attack, such as a proceeding to enjoin the collection of assessments for the repair of a ditch, it can not be shown that the original ditch was not received by the proper authorities. (2) Where proceedings establishing an outlet ditch are declared void, rendering a connecting ditch valueless, after it is too late for parties to appeal from assessments for the connecting ditch, equity will award relief by enjoining the assessments.

BRIEF-SUPREME COURT PRACTICE.

BRIEF—SUPREME COURT PRACTICE.

16,490, Elizabeth Ogle et al. vs. Elbert Manlove et al. Tipton C. C. Appeal dismissed. Coffey, J.

No brief is filed by appellants except what is called a supersedeas brief, in which no authority is cited or argument attempted. This is not a compliance with Rule 20 of this court, and the appeal is dismissed for failure to comply with this : ule.

INSURANCE BROKER - PRINCIPAL AND AGENT.

AGENT.

445. William R. Criswell vs. William Riley. Gibson C. C. Rehearing denied. Crumpacker, C. J.

An insurance company may send a policy to a broker for delivery and still withhold from him authority to receive payment of the premium, in which event he would not be the company's agent for that purpose, and payment to him would not bind the company, provided the assured had notice of his restricted authority.

REPLEVIN-BOND-SUFFICIENCY OF.
606. Ransom L. Lemert vs. Robert S.
Shaffer et al. Marshall C. C. Rehearing denied. New, J.

In an action of replevin before a justice of the peace it is not necessary for the plaintiff, before the writ for the property issues, to file the particular bond provided for by Section 1547, R. S. 1881; it is sufficient if the bond filed is such as provided for by Section 1270.

APPELLATE COURT PRACTICE-WAIVER OF ERRORS.

446. Robert M. Smith vs. Frank McDaniel. Clark C. C. Affirmed. Fox, J.

(1) Errors assigned must be argued or they are waived; mere assertions that rulings are erroneous are not sufficient. Reasons must be given and, it necessary, authorities cited in support of them. (2) No error was committed in giving the instructions, and the evidence sustains the finding.

RIED WOMAN—SURETYSHIP—PLEADING AND PRACTICE.
675. Sarah M. Potter et al. vs. Florence L. Sheets et al. Montgomery C. C. Reversed. Black, J.
(1) In an action by an indorsee on a promissory note governed by the law merchant, an answer of want of consideration is not a good defense. (2) In an action by an indorsee against the makers on a joint and soveral promissory note made by a husband and wife, it is not necessary for the wife in her answer to state facts from which her want of power to make the note would afwant of power to make the note would affirmatively appear, or to show that she executed the note as the surety of her co-defendant; but a mere answer of her coverture will cast upon the plaintiff the burden of showing in reply that the contract was one which she had power to make. To render such a reply sufficient it should show facts from which the Court could determine that she was not a surety. Mere conclusions will not be sufficient.

MASTER AND SERVANT—NEGLIGENCE—PERSONAL INJURY—WRITTEN RELEASE—CONSIDERATION — VERBAL CONTRACT FOR EMPLOYMENT—BREACH—CONSTRUCTION
—MEASURE OF DAMAGES — PLEADING AND PRACTICE.

610. Pennsylvania Company vs. James Dolan. Clark C. C. Affirmed. Reinhard, J. olo. Pennsylvania Company vs. James Dolan. Clark C. C. Affirmed. Reinhard, J.

(1) Where a railroad company admits its liability to an employe for a personal injury and verbally agrees to pay him a certain sum, and give him steady and permanent employment in consideration of a written release from him discharging the company from liability for the injury, such written release is not the foundation of an action by the employe to recover for a breach of the agreement, and need not be filed with his complaint. (2) An agreement to give such employe "steady and permanent employment" is not void for uncertainty. Reasonably constructed it is an agreement to furnish the employe employment as long as he is able, ready and willing to perform such services as the company may have for him to perform. (3) Nor is such contract void as against public policy in restricting a quasi-public servant in its duties to the public. (4) Nor is it objectionable for want of mutuality. (5) Nor is it, though verbal, rendered void by the statute of frauds. (6) Where the parol agreement for employment is purely collateral to the release, and the parties did not undertake to put the terms of the consideration, so far as it related to the employment in the written release, they are not concluded by its recitals, and it is not a defense to the action on the verbal agreement. The writing, being incomplete and not containing a stipulation for a contractual consideration nor an enforceable contract, extrinsic facts may be averred and proved showing its true consideration. (7) The plaintiff must recover his entire damages in such case in one action and the measure of damages is the amount of wages due at the time of trial together with compensation for the future action and the measure of damages is the amount of wages due at the time of trial together with compensation for the future benefit the plaintiff would probably have realized under the contract, with proper deduction of such sums as he earned, or by reasonable diligence could earn in the future time of the contract. The burden is on the defendant to show such deductions. Picturing the Railroad Men.

NOTE—This beautiful Revolving Bookcase is supplied to our subscribers, and to our subscribers only, at 5. It is made expressly to hold THE NEWS edition Encyclopedia Britannica, or we can supply a neat upright case at $1.

T is said "Some men are born great, some achieve greatness and some have greatness thrust upon them." This might have been true when advancement came through the favor of kings and queens. But in this American Republic and in this Nineteenth Century there is but one way for a man to become great. He must achieve greatness, and no man can achieve greatness without education.

With education the poorest boy may become the greatest man, though we can not all be President The most important question is: Would we be prepared to perform the duties of a great office if it were thrust upon us? We probably would if we should do as one great President did.

He is said to have, as his constant companion, the Encyclopedia Britannica.

He is even said to have kept a set in his private car while making a campaign tour.

This mark of diligence and intelligence made him many friends and admirers.

There is a great principle involved in this idea. If you look up just one question each day you soon become an educated person, and you learn to enjoy it. These questions should be investigated right when they come up, while your mind is curious; then you won't forget what you read-you can't if you try.

But to do this you need the Encyclopedia Britannica and THE NEWS will, for the REMAINING FEW DAYS, get it for you at wholesale club rates. This chance of a lifetime will positively be withdrawn December 24.

DUNLAP'S ARREST AT ELWOOD.

Federal Marshal's Office Concern Over an Arrest in Madison County,

Somebody has been impersonating United States Marshal Dunlap at Elwood, and has been put in jail. There is a possibility that the authorities at Elwood have made a mistake. A man giving his name as Dun-lap, of Indianapolis, connected with the office of the United States marshal, is under arrest there, charged with obtaining money under false representation and imper-sonating an officer. Mr. Dunlap is here. One of his deputies, Capt. N. E. Mathers, is supposed to be at Elwood, and the office here is in a tremor as to what this arrest means. Mathers used to be in the horse means. Mathers used to be in the horse business, and the Anderson Times says the man under arrest at Elwood claims to have been in the horse business. If it is the Captain, the belief here is that he has been obliged to assume an unpleasant part in order to accomplish some purpose. He had several warrants to serve in Madison county, and had papers on his person to establish his identity.

CHARITIES AND CORRECTIONS. Statement of the Board of Charities Showing Expenses For the Year.

The secretary of the State Board of Charities has prepared the financial statement of the board for the year just closing. The total cost of caring for the various charities of the State was $080,050.17. This is a reduction of over $200,000 from the previous year, the erection of buildings not having entered into the expense. The actual cost of maintenance, however, has been about the same. The staple articles of food have the same. The staple articles of food have been less expensive. In this respect some of the institutions have probably reached the limit of economy. The reform schools have required a little more money this year than last, and the prisons' expenses have been somewhat less. It is expected that the cost of prisoners will increase rather than decrease in the future.

Ex-Judge A. C. Ayres made a plea for the improvement of Clifford avenue next year. The board said that before this improvement could be made it would have to extend the improvement already made on Massachusetts avenue, to the station. The question would then come in as to whether the department would have funds after this improvement was made to extend the same on Clifford avenue. The board promised to give the request some consideration.

Charles Dudley Warner's Lecture. Charles Dudley Warner, the eminent editor and author, will come to Indianapolis as the guest of the New England Club, and will speak at its dinner Wednesday even ing next. Mr. Warner has consented to come one day earlier than his engagement "Penology" at Plymouth church next Tuesday evening. Mr. Warner has made a study of crime in all its phases and of its treatment. Mr. Warner has written many books, among which are "Backlog Studies," "My Summer in a Garden," "My Winter on the Nile," "Hunting the Deer," etc. His latest book is "In the Levant."

Death of David Coble. David Coble, 198 Bright street, died this morning from paralysis, He had a stroke of paralysis one week ago and never revived after. He was born and brought up on a farm three miles northwest of the city. He came to the city a number of years ago and engaged in the grocery business with his brother, on West Washington street, where the firm did business for more than twenty years. He was well and favorably known in the entire western part of the county. He was popular with his customers in business; he was charitable and accom-modating to the poor and needy.

The case is one of the most notable that ever went up from the United States Court at Indianapolis. The origin of the case was this: When Henry C. Ives obtained court of the Cincinnati, Hamilton & Dayton road he desired an outlet or extension west from Indianapolis to the Mississippl river. This he could get by obtaining control of the Terre Haute & Indianapolis railroad (the Vandalia.) To do this he paid W. R. McKeen, president and practical owner of the Vandalia, $88,000 in cash, and gave his note as trustee for the C., H. & D. for $669,000, making $1,558,000 in all. When the old stockholders regained possession of the C., H. & D. road, they repudiated the purchase of the Vandalia and brought suit against McKeen to recover the $889,000 paid to him by Ives. The court below found for McKeen. James John, a framp, while prowling about the home of Michael Kriner, of Knights-town, was assaulted by Kriner and danger-ously stabbed. The Result of One of Ives's Deals Now Before the Supreme Court.

Many Indiana attorneys are watching with interest the progress of the suit of the C., H. & D. Railroad Company against William R. McKeen, which is being considered by the Supreme Court of the United States this R. McKeen, which is being considered by the Supreme Court of the United States this seek. One of the questions involved in the argument before the Supreme Court was whether or not the case should be sent to the Court of Appeals of the Seventh circuit. Mr. Maxwell, of Cincinnati, who appeared for the railroad company, argued that in this case the Circuit Court had undertaken to certify to the Supreme Court certain questions of fact for consideration, but that the certification was irregular and insufficient, and that the court should have the whole case brought up. It could not, he said, be heard by the Court of Appeals of the Seventh circuit for the reason that a court could not be organized in the circuit. Judge Gresham, he said, declined to sit in the case because of his relation to the parties to it, and Judges Woods and Jennings were disqualified by reason of their having previously passed on it.

The Great Work of President Harper, of

In one respect the new Chicago University is in the lead of other Western institutions. It is organizing a complete and extensive plan of university extension. This plan provides for "centers" in different parts of the city and adjacent States, in which courses of lectures on certain specified subjects will be given by professors and lecturers sent out from the university. It is the grand scheme of bringing the university to the people. THE R. W. TANSILL CO., Manufacturers, NEW YORK, CHICAGO, SAN'FRANC One agent - dealer only - war

AHEAD OF PRESIDENT HARPER.

But The News has anticipated President Harper. It already has this university extension in practical and ever-spreading operation. For some weeks The News has been offering its readers an education upon a most unique and novel basis. It has formulated a proposition which makes every home a "university extension center." It has an able corps of over two thousand professors, lecturers and readers, and this body is known as the Encyclopedia Britannica. The twenty-five volumes of this solidified permanent course in university extension have in them the knowledge of the world. The arts and sciences, history and travel, mechanics and chemistry, description and romance of this earth are found in the library of libraries which The News offers to all who read these words for 10 cents a day. Comparatively few are fortunate enough to have the grand gift of a college education. The great mass of the people can not pass beyond the grammar school. The problem of existence requires a personal solution, which must begin as soon as the arms are strong enough to work. It is to the people—the many—that The News's offer is made.

The interior waterways of the World's Fair include eight divisions of water within the grounds connecting with one another. The "Basin" extends east from the Administration Bullding to Lake Michigan. It contains ten and three-fourths acres. The "South Cunal," two and a half acres, extends south from the head of the Basin. The lagoon around the wooded inland contains twenty-three acres; that north of the Island, running to Lake Michigan, there-fourths acres, and the pond in the north part of the grounds one and a half acres, the south of the Ageicultural, Building, eight and three-fourths acres, and the south of the Raisin cares. The lagoons are spanned in front of each building with high arched bridges approached by gradual inclines. They are covered with the "staff" material, and ornamented with the beautiful moldings and thary, as are the buildings. They are to be outlined inside and out with electric lights of all colors, while their reflection will gleam in the dancing waters beneath.

The peristyle is the connecting structure between the Music Hall and the Casino at be foot of the grand basin, forming the cortal from Lake Michigan to the interior water ways. This portal is dedicated to Columbus, and is inscribed with the names of the world's great explorers. Crowning it is a group of statuary, emblematic of the progress of the world. It bears forty-eight columns, representing the States and Territories. Each State's column bears its coat-

The World's Fair Transportation Company carries visitors to the grounds by boats, leaving the docks on the lake front, between Monroe and Van Buren streets, and landing at the Exposition pier, opposite the foot of Fifty-eighth street. The round trip fare will be 25 cents, and the time, one way, forty-five minutes. A boat will leave the docks every ten minutes.

The Electric Launch and Navigation Company of New York, which has been awarded the contract for running electric boats on these waterways, will pay the Exposition 53½ per cent. of the gross receipts. These boats will convey visitors from one point to another, or on the general three-mile tour of the grounds, as desired.

There will also be in these waters the antive reed man padding visitors about in native canoes; gondoliers, attired in all the splendors of Venetian costume in beautiful gondolas; the swan-boats, novel and attractive; the Thames wherries to be sent spinning by muscular-looking oarsmen; common row-boats on every side; Chinese junks, manned by denizens of that empire, and the elaborate rowing regatta. There will be three classes of trips. The omnibus boats will make regular trips around the waterways, stopping at each building. The express boats will make round-trips without stopping, while the cab boats, with carrying capacity of four persons, may be hailed at any point and engaged for the trip or by the hour, as is a bansom cab.

COMMENT OF THE STATE PRESS.

The country roads will, in a few months get "bad." This is an annual trouble to farmers. This has been endured too long. Some good, sensible plan of action should be agreed upon before another year goes by, so that twelve months from now the roads of this county may have been improved. If the farmers and merchants and all others who are interested would only take some united and well-planned action the improvement would follow.—[Boonville-Enquirer.

An interesting question for the country ville Enquirer.

An interesting question for the country Road Congress to discuss at its next meeting would be the feasibility of constructing roads of vitrified brick. Such a road would not be required to be more than twenty feet wide in the road bed, with here and there wider places for teams to pass each other. We believe that in the long run such roads would prove cheaper to the country than gravel or macadam. The roads in the country are not traveled as much as the streets of a city, and a well-constructed brick rolliway, ought to last forty or fifty years.—[Evansville Tribune.

THE INDIANAPOLIS NEWS has "writ to" forty or fifty years.—[Evansville Tribune.

THE INDIANAPOLIS NEWS has "writ to" a number of Representatives-elect to the coming Legislature, as ing them what bills they propose to present. From the replies it is evident that a number of bills on roads will be introduced. The subject is one that needs consideration, and it looks as if there would be legislation on the subject. But what is wanted is a bill that will be prepared in accordance with the views of practical roadmakers, and which should be considered on its merits alone, and not as a partisan measure. Indiana has been cursed with too many poor road laws in the past. with too many poor road laws in the past.—[Albion New Era.

[Albion New Era.]

We learn what bad roads bring about when we read of mud blockades. Large districts of country are rendered impassable by mud. Almost an entire State is brought into a condition of siege by the muddy roads. The farmers can not transport their products, the railroads lose freight, and the speculators seize the opportunity to advance prices of produce.

This is what a mud blockade means. The State or region directly affected, the railroads traversing it, and the country at large may all suffer for it.

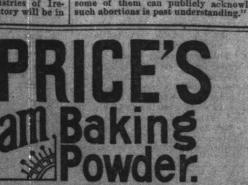

It is stated that in Illinois alone the loss to the community from bad roads last year was as much as $16,000,000. If this ratio were taken for the whole country, it would give a loss of $300,000,000. At 3 per cent.

give a loss of $300,000,000. At 3 per cent. such loss would represent a capitalization of ten thousand millions of dollars. This is one-sixth of the total wealth of the country.

The agitation for good roads was orginally undertaken by the League of American Wheelmen. S S A bill has been presented before Gongress looking to the establishment of a national highway commission. Special laws have been passed by States for the construction of roads. The effect of such laws has already been widely felt. The formation of a national association for the encouragement of the building of good roads has been effected. The probabilities are that the next ten years will see a great change—almost a revolution. The

THE BUREAU OF JUSTICE.

THE FIRST ANNUAL MEETING OF THIS NEW INSTITUTION.

Interesting Reports of The Year Needed Amendments in Laws— What the Business Men of Indianapolis Have Done.

The annual meeting of the Indianapolis Bureau of Justice took place in parlor No. 2 at the Denison House last night. Father Gavisk, vice-president of the bureau, presided over the meeting. The first of the reports for the year was from the president, Mr. Morris Ross, who said:

sided over the meeting. The first of the reports for the year was from the president, Mr. Morris Ross, who said:

For two years or more I have known the Chicago Bureau of Justice. I had long thought of attempting the organization of a similar institution in Indianapolis. Some eighteen months ago this thought was quickened into action by reading the report of a wrong done, the character of which would properly bring it to a bureau of justice, and which the Rev. Father Gavisk had righted by his personal efforts. I told to him my long-cherished wish about a bureau of justice. We united in a letter to some fifty business men of Indianapolis, roughly stating the project in a few words. We had from all but one or two, I believe, cordial answers in the affirmative, practically to this effect: "It is a good thing, and will be glad to subscribe, but do not ask me for any of my time," and an answer in person from a sufficient number on the stormy evening of October 27, 1891, who came together in the parlors of the Denison House and there organized the Indianapolis Bureau of Justice. It was organized quietly, as becomes business men, and has proceeded upon its way quietly as becomes a business institution. It was the bureau of justice should in a manner be the expression of the business men of Indianapolis; that it should so far as possible assert the purpose of its being in a husiness-like way, its purpose being justice—the ideal of fair dealing between man and man. In other words, its intention was to appear rather as a business than as a charitable work of Indianapolis; that it should so far as possible assert the purpose of its being in a fusion. It was organized quietly as each of indianapolis, that it should so far as possible assert the purpose of its being in a fusion. In other words, its intention was to appear rather as a business than as a charitable work of fair dealing helween man and means of those who were active in the many phases of the charitable work of the city, but to quietly add to this, as something eature is the lending of money at 300 per centis year.

This is an evil which the bureau of justice has successfully grappled with in every case, I helieve, thanks to our careful attorney. It is here pertinent to say that of nearly fifty separate cases which the bureau has settled in the hast ten months only three have been litirated. This is at once a testimony to the abilty of our attorney and a demonstration that he bureau is administered in its true spirit as houreau of justice and not as a bureau of litiration. Such administration further exbounds the idea of arbitration or mediation which is coming to have prominent consideraion in industrial affairs and suggests advanages which the bureau may offer in this community in furtherance of the peaceable settlement of differences.

tion in industrial amairs and suggests advantages which the bureau may offer in this community in furtherance of the peaceable settlement of differences.

In the matter of chattel mortgage loans, of which I have spoken as one of the commonest evils that 'the bureau has successfully met, and which it is plainly called upon to meet still further, there is a means of help that, in a way, will dovetail with our efforts, namely, in the establishment of a chattel-mortgage loan association. I have secured from Boston the particulars of such an institution for some years in successful operation there. This information is in the hands of a prominent banker in Indianapolis, who intends shortly to establish such an institution here, with, as we think, some improvements. Briefly, its purpose is to accumulate some capital and loan it at a legal rate of interest on chattel mortgage, the borrower to become a member of the association on the building association plan; so that the poor man or woman justice to any who may come under its protecting care.

Following this was the report of the bureau's attorney, Mr. Frank H. Blackledge. In the course of it he said:

As you are aware, the Bureau of Justice concerns itself with two things: The settlement of particular cases submitted to it, and the amendment of statutes affecting the rights and remedies of the unprotected classes. Concerning the particular cases arising upon application to the Bureau of Justice, the following is a statement: Chattel mortgages, 15; wages, including claims under mechanic's lien law, 17; purchases upon the installment plan, 2; divorce, 1; support, 1; personal injury, 1; commitment of incorrigible children, 2; miscellaneous, 3. Total, 42: In the cases arising upon chattel mortgages, half the amount involved has been saved to the applicants. In the cases involving wages, the claims, in each instance, have been fully recovered.

accues, its validity is frequently denied, and, if forced to do so, they defend upon the ground that they have no corporate existence. The president of such an association admitted to the attorney of the board "that his company could not undertake to make assessments for more than a limited number of losses each year, as to do so would so increase the expense to the assessment-paying membership as to result in immediate and large withdrawals of members, and that he himself, if he desired insurance, would go to another company on a diderent plan." This is direct evidence as to the fallacy of the assessment plan which has recently heen so aptly shown in the case of the Iron Hall. The point is here: If it is not good insurance for the rail-rear superint-endent, it is not exter for a brakeman. And the railroar official who, knowing that fact, advises a brakeman to mrest his money in it is guilty of a serious moral breach.

The law governing associations doing an insurance business upon the assessment plan should be so amended to include, if a fair construction of the existing statute does not already include, all societies or associations, incorporated or unincorporated, which do an insurance business on the assessment plan. They should be compelled to adopt a frank and honorable course toward all persons with whom they may have dealings, and this can only be done by making them amenable to the laws of the State, so that parties having claims against them ensuing out of a contract, can bring them within the jurisdiction of the State courts without unnecessary costs or delay.

The subject of justices of the peace was lay.

The subject of justices of the peace was also discussed at length.

Concerning the method and spirit of the most it may be said, in conclusion, that the The subject of justices of the peace was also discussed at length.

Concerning the method and spirit of the work, it may be said, in conclusion, that the effort has been to discriminate between applicants for assistance and to decline applications in which it is clearly the desire of persons to use the bureau as a means of accomplishing petty revenges. It has also, been an effort to discourage litigation and to settle matters submitted to it, as far as possible, out of court and upon an equitable basis. The usefulness of the bureau will largely depend, I think, upon a knowledge of the fact that publicity will only be given to the names of parties, and to the facts submitted to it by them, when it becomes necessary to decide the controversy in court, and that otherwise the same confidence will be observed as is observed by any attorney in the conduct of his practice. It is hoped that the work of the bureau may be continued as begun, quietly and in accord with the spirit of arbitration which is more and more becoming a clearly defined factor in the affairs of commercial communities. So much is this true in the larger cities, as for instance, in Chicago, that private boards of arbitration, estaplished by men of known integrity and ability, are being heartily indorsed by the business community, who, in many instances, prefer this simpler and speedier method of settlement.

So far as it can do so the bureau should endeavor to fill that niche in the growth of this city, and by sound business methods and an impartial examination of facts, strive first for an equitable and amicable settlement of controversies, and, if that fail, to proceed without delay to legal and compulsory remedies.

The bureau adopted the following resolu tions:

Whereas, In the death of A. R. Baker this community lost one of its valued citizens, foremost in good works, quick in response to all progressive things and instant in service to community lost one of its valued citizens, foremost in good works, quick in response to all progressive things and instant in service to their advancement.

Whereas, From A. R. Baker came one of the first and heartiest responses to the Bureau of Justice, elected to serve as one of its directors, but deprived by the demands of his basy life from giving to it the attention which his conscience ever required of him in whatever he undertook he stated this necessity on his part, but with characteristic loyalty to whatever good things came to him to do, he said: "Not being able to give my time I will subscribe for five memberships instead of one, and feel perhaps that I may be doing something."

Whereas, In the death of A. R. Baker the Bureau of Justice has lost one of its stanch supporters, who, by his advice and encouraging words and in means furnished it in other ways than subscription, set an example for the helpfulness of good enterprises.

Resolved, that this statement be spread upon the minutes of the Bureau of Justice and that a copy be, sent to the family af the deceased.
